SIR: Having accompanied the fleet in the recent exchange of prisoners at Savannah, and having and remanded back into the stockade. And further, if seen no account anywhere from an eye-witness. I desire it should be repeated a second time they would be fired to give your readers a statement of some facts. The ex-change is still progressing, though but slowly. About of joy, and not seeing any, we were led to inquire as to quisition. At first we were disposed to blame our boys to a few points, perhaps among the most striking, with in favor of the integrity of Uruguay. A similar posifor their filth and blackness. It was difficult to tell whether we were receiving white men or negroes, from outward appearances. But when we heard their story, and the story of the "dead line," how it cut them off treated our soldiers kindly. The good ladies and friends are the United States. Should this occur, and from all resources, the matter was made plain. We believed their story, for it was one and essentially the same thing out of every mouth. On receiving our men, we at tempted to make them comfortable and clean, and save as many as possible, although an alarming per cent must and will die. They are dying from causes that run back to that living hell upon earth, the Andersonville stockade. Here is an actual case; multiply it by 5,000. A walking shelefon, yes, I mean it, a sheleton; how it had life, I cannot tell, but Fam sure it was a skeleton and nothing more, once, I should think, a large and healthy man, now diseased as much as skin and bones could be-filthy-naked as when it came into the world speaks: "Chaplain, I am in a bad condition. thought, and in the name of God and the "U. S. Christian Commission" I gave him clothing. I say multiply this case by 5,000, with this exception: it may be some of the poor boys have some part of an old garment upon them, and if so, it is abundantly tenanted by other creatures than human. But multitudes are positively naked. Stripped of everything of value to the eveny, they were turned into a stockaded field, something as farmers turn sheep into a lot; and there they were left, without the least shelter, with nothing to lie upon but the earth that I dare not undertake to describe it here, as the soldiers speak of it, lest it should not be believed. The mind must be aided by the actual presence of these men, as they came into our hands, in order to believe one half they say. Our very swine fare better than they fared, for we give tom some kind of litter and shelter, and enough to eat. Inside of this stockade at Andersonville, and within a few yards of it, runs a line or siender rell, called the "dead line," whether from accident, ignorance or any other cause should so much as put his hand upon it, was instantly shot, and any guard who should manage to shoot a 'damned Yankee," could have a furlough of thirty days! I was told that one Rebel on picket managed to shoot seven of our soldiers. New prisoners coming in. So that out of thirty-three thousand prisoners, from one cause and another, mostly from starvation, I was assured by every one who opened his mouth upon the subject, that over ten thousand, and some said thirteen thousand, died in a little over five months, and all this in a single prison, and that not Libby nor Belle Island.

Ask, if you will, why these men did not keep clear. They solemnly affirm that men were shot for no greater erime than going to the brook, running through theh inclosure, to wash. A Rebel, brought up a tyrant, and conferredly reckless of human life, would want only very small protext to shoot a "Yankee," if he was any ions for a furlough. There is still another feature to this prison. The most consummate meanness is practiced in influencing our man to join the Rebel ranks our Government were common-that it had given up the conflict and consequently left them to care for them -starcation; if they would join their army they should be well cared tor and promoted, so that under one induence and another, it is confidently believed that from three to five thousand have enlisted from the prisoners I state these things upon the unanimous authority of the soldiers returning; I need not say that they are vohe ment in their exclamations, and touching in their art less statements.

During the hot weather as many as 176 have died in a day, in a single camp, and the poor fellows, lying in their own filth, with none to lift them out of it, became alive with vermin, which actually ate away parts of the system, especially in cases of diarrhea, while yet the poor fellow had life.

Here is a statement coming from Belle Island, in re spect to food. They solemnly affirm that they were reduced to such a point of starvation that a dog or cat reduced to such a point of startation that a dog or cat was a perfect interf! The dog of a Rebel Captain came upon the Island with him and was no sooner seen than he was drawn aside and slain, and some parts of him put immediately in process of cooking.
